Your privacy is very important to us at bhawkins and we understand that you care how information about you is used and shared. This Privacy Policy governs the website located at www.bhawkins.com and any other websites and services owned or operated by bhawkins (collectively "Website"). This Policy outlines what information we collect, how we use it, and under what circumstances, if any, we will share it. Other than as set forth in this Policy, bhawkins will not provide your Personally Identifiable Information (defined below) to third parties without your specific permission.

By visiting the bhawkins Website, submitting information, or using any of our products or services (e.g., e-mail alerts), you acknowledge that that you have read and agree to be bound by the terms of this Privacy Policy and the Website's Terms of Use and that you consent to having your data transferred to, and processed in, the United States. If you do not agree, you should exit the Website and not use any of our products or services or provide any information.

1. Types of Information Collected and Uses of Collected Information

The information we learn from users helps us personalize and continually improve our offerings and your experience with us, such as by customizing content, responding to e-mail requests, and communicating with you. We gather two basic types of information: "Personally Identifiable Information" that can identify a person as an individual (e.g., name, mailing address, telephone number, e-mail address) and "Non-Personally Identifiable Information," which may include aggregated information, demographic information, IP addresses, and any other information that does not necessarily reveal a person's specific identity. Within those two broad categories, we gather the following types of information:

A. Information You Provide to Us: We may receive and store any information you enter on our website or provide to us in any way. This may include your first and last name, nickname, e-mail address, mailing address, password, telephone number, date of birth, gender, and any other information you provide in your profile or registration. Information you provide us may also include information you provide when: accessing a service, purchasing a membership, making a charitable donation or ordering a product (which may include your credit card and related information); submitting/posting of professional or personal resumes and curriculum vitae; entering a contest or sweepstake, filling out a survey, posting a review or comment, providing feedback, requesting information, sending messages, or performing searches. Some or all of the functionality contemplated in the preceding sentence may or may not be available at any given time.

You may choose not to provide us with certain information, but that may prevent you from: participating in or utilizing the activity or service (e.g., e-mail alerts), posting comments to our Website, creating a user profile, performing searches or queries, sending messages, identifying products for purchase or other services, or communicating with us.

We may use information you provide to us to: provide our offerings to you; improve our offerings; analyze Website use; enhance the operation of the Website; improve our marketing and promotional efforts; administer sweepstakes and contests; and as provided in Section 2 of this Privacy Policy, to enhance and customize your experience with any third party and promote our offerings to third parties. We may also use Personally Identifiable Information to: contact you; troubleshoot; resolve disputes; perform administrative tasks; enforce our agreements with you (including this Privacy Policy and our Terms of Use); track complaints; and cooperate with governmental agencies and otherwise comply with applicable law. For example, if you send our customer service an e-mail we may use your comments and feedback to tell others about our services, and may post your comment in our marketing materials or on our Website. Your comments may contain personal information such as your name, and if it does and you have not already posted it for public view, we will obtain consent from you to post your name along with your comment before posting it for public view.

B. Cookies or Other Data Tracking: A cookie is a small file that is stored on a user's computer for record-keeping purposes that contains information about that user. We may use cookies to save you time while using the Website, remind us who you are, and track and target user interests in order to provide a customized experience. Cookies may also allow us to gather Non-Personally Identifiable Information from you, like the web pages you have visited while on the Website and the links you have clicked on while on the Website. We use this information to help us create a more user-friendly experience for all visitors. In addition, we may use third party advertising companies to place advertisements on our Website. As part of their service, those third-party advertisers may place separate cookies on your computer. We have no access to or control over such third-party cookies. This Privacy Policy covers the use of cookies by our Website only and does not cover the use of cookies by any advertiser or other third party.

Most browsers automatically accept cookies, but you may be able to modify your browser settings to decline cookies (the "help" portion of the toolbar on the majority of browsers will direct you on how to prevent your browser from accepting new cookies, how to command the browser to tell you when you receive a new cookie, or how to fully disable cookies). We encourage you to leave the cookies activated, however, because cookies may enable you to take advantage of some of our features and if you decline or delete cookies, parts of the Website may not work effectively or at all.

In addition to cookies, we may use other technologies like web beacons and pixel tags to track your use of our Website pages and promotions, or we may allow our Third Party Service Providers to use these devices on our behalf. Web beacons and pixel tags are small graphic images placed on websites or in e-mails that indicate whether you have performed a specific action. When you access these pages or open or click an e-mail, such web beacons and pixel tags generate a notice of that action. Web beacons and pixel tags may provide information about visitor traffic and behavior on our Website and provide a way to measure the effectiveness of any marketing or promotions. We may also utilize web beacons and pixel tags provided by our affiliated businesses for the same purposes.

C. Automatic Information: We may receive and store certain types of information whenever you interact with us. For example, like many web sites and as addressed above, we may use "cookies," and we may automatically collect certain types of information when your Web browser accesses our Website or advertisements and other content served by or on behalf of us on other sites. This may include information about your operating system and browser, the site accessed immediately before accessing our Website, the website access after leaving our Website, your IP address, pages you requested, shopping and purchase preferences, and history. We may use this data to, among other things, customize and enhance our Website and offerings as well as your experience with third parties (as provided in Section 2), and to help operate and administer our Website.

Generally, our Website may automatically collect usage information, such as the numbers and frequency of visitors to our Website and its components. We may use this data in the aggregate to design and improve our Website and offerings, and we may provide this information to affiliated businesses so they can understand how often users use areas of our Website, to help enable them to provide you with an optimal Web experience. We may also collect and use that information for internal purposes.

We may use Non-Personally Identifiable Information to: troubleshoot; administer our Website; analyze trends; gather demographic and preference information; enhance and customize our offerings; measure the effectiveness of any online advertising, content, and programming; cooperate with governmental authorities and otherwise comply with applicable law. We may also share this information with our authorized affiliated businesses and advertisers for these purposes. We may also publish this information for promotional purposes or as a representative audience for advertisers.
